HOST INSTITUTION College of Foreign Languages

Shanghai Ocean University, founded in 1912, is a multidisciplinary applied research university. It is a jointly constructed university by the Shanghai Municipal People's Government, the State Oceanic Administration, and the Ministry of Agriculture and Rural Affairs. In September 2017, it was selected into the list of national "World-Class Discipline Construction Universities". In February 2022, it was selected into the second round of the list of "Double First-Class" construction universities and construction disciplines.

The College of Foreign Languages was established in 2006. At present, the College of Foreign Languages has 3 undergraduate majors in English, Japanese and Korean, 1 master degree program in translation and 1 first-level discipline program in foreign language and literature, and consists of English Department, Japanese Department, Korean Department, College Foreign Language Teaching Department and Chinese Teaching Department.

PROGRAM OVERVIEW

Shanghai, an international metropolis born and prospering by the sea, is closely linked to the ocean in its course of development. As an important window of Chinese modernization, Shanghai, with its unique marine culture, has demonstrated to the world the concept of harmonious coexistence of man and nature in the process of China's modernization. As a "double first-class" university, Shanghai Ocean University, featuring fisheries and aquaculture, is committed to strengthening the international dissemination of Chinese modernization. The program aims to highlight China's scientific and cultural strength in the field of ocean affairs by telling the world about China's practices and achievements in the field of sustainable development of the oceans, and contributing to the promotion of the community of destiny in the oceans.
